Lancaster Farming

L. 5. NO. 16 | Lancaster, Pa., Saturday, March 12, 1960 | $2 Per Year

"THESE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE ACTIVITIES of 4-H clubs." Keith Overgaard is to be saying to Patsy Witmer as they look over the 4-H display at the Conestoga ey High School this week. Keith, a seventeen-year-old senior at the school has been H member for six years. He has had projects in garden, strawberries, capons, sweet , entomology, and handyman club on the farm of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter gaard at Lancaster R4. Patsy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Witmer, Ronks lives on a farm but has never enrolled in a 4-H project. The pretty, fourteen-year- ninth grade co-ed says that she has considered joining one of the clubs in the area. pose of the poster is to encourage the rural youth to participate in 4-H club work.

Angus Association Announces New Registration Fees

The board of directors of the American Angus Association meeting in St. Joseph Missouri, recently voted to revise registration fees on purebred Aberdeen-Angus cattle imported from the British Isles.

Effective with purchases made on and after May 1, 1960, registration fees for entry in the American Herd Book of animals recorded by the Aberdeen-Angus Cattle Society will be as follows: $2,500 per head for bulls; $1,500 for a cow and her calf or calves; and $1,000 per head for other females.

This action was taken to discourage the importation of unworthy breeding stock.

Tobacco Seed Treating Demonstration Set

A series of four demonstrations on cleaning and treating tobacco seed has been scheduled for next week according to Harry Sloat Associate County Agent.

Dr. Carlton Taylor, Plant Disease Specialist from Pennsylvania State University, will treat tobacco seed with silver nitrate solution and explain disease control practices.

On March 15 at 9:00 a.m. the demonstrations will begin at the farm of Levi Rohrer, Lititz R2, one mile west of Lititz. During the afternoon, beginning at 1:30 the demonstration will continue at the farm of Harold Endslow, Marietta R1.

On the following day, March 16, the morning session will be held on the farm of J. Mowery Frey, Sr. Lancaster R7, along route 222 just south of Mylin's Corner. The afternoon session will be on the farm of Lester Weaver, New Holland R1, one mile northeast of New Holland.

"The control of tobacco diseases lies in clean seed and clean plants rather than field spraying," Sloat says.

FIVE - DAY WEATHER FORECAST

Saturday - Wednesday

Temperatures for the next five days will average 10 to 12 degrees below normal. Normal temperatures for this time of year range from a low of 32 at night to a high of 50 in the afternoon. Quite cold over the weekend with only a slowly warming trend thereafter. Next precipita- about Monday or Tuesday. Precipitation for the past week was 2½ inches of snow.

Temperatures for the first 10 days in March averaged 15 degrees below normal making it the coldest March on record.

Peaches Need Dormant Spray

Associate County Agricultural Agent, Harry Sloat has prepared the following list of recommendations for peach spray in consultation with Drs. Carlton F. Taylor and John O. Pepper of the Pennsylvania State University.

Purpose of the spray is to prevent leaf curl, and reduc bacterial leaf spot and brown rot and to control San Jose and European lecanium scales and red mites.

The spray should be applied before the buds start to crack but when the temperature is above freezing.

Several combinations of in gredients may be used depending on the condiitions in your orchard. In each 100 gallons of spray, any one of the folling combinations may be used.

To prevent leaf curl and reduce bacterial leaf spot, but not scales, use six lbs. of copper sulfate and six lbs fresh spray lime for dilute application or eight lbs. of each for concentrate spray.

To control scales mites and leaf curl use two lbs. of copper sulfate and three pounds of fresh spray lime plus two gallons of miscible superior oil for dilute spray For the concentrate spray use three pounds of copper sulfate, 4½ lbs. of fresh spray lime and three gallons of the oil. Where Terrapin scale is a problem, the oil may be increased by one gallon in either the dilute or concentrate mixture.

When combining oil with bordeaux mixture, add the materials in the order listed Oil must be added last.

For the control of leaf curl only, ferbam (two lbs. dilute or six lbs. concentrate) or liquid DN regular (one quart dilute) may be used. Do not use DN with oil.

Complete coverage of all buds and limbs is needed to obtain effective pest control.

March Is Nat'l Egg Month How Do You Like Yours?

Editors Note: Many solutions to some of the surplus problems in agriculture have been proposed. Some suggestions have been preposterous; some have been presented tongue-in-cheek. The egg producers are attacking the problem in several ways. Following is an article printed recently in the "Eastern Indiana Farmer."

What is the plight of the egg, Efforts to glamorize it are shaping up. Pickled, perfumed, diced, curried, curled, canned, and even butterscotch-flavored eggs are just a few of the possibilities.

There may be such things as vacuum dehydrated "instant" scrambled eggs, frozen fried eggs with prefabricated French toast, and there will be no breaking the egg. or getting a frying pan dirty.

Behind these ideas, no matter how fanciful they may seem, is an urgent economic problem. Americans are not eating as many eggs and the nation's hens are turning out eggs faster than ever. The diminishing demand has pushed wholesale egg prices down to very near the lowest level in 19 years, squeezing profits of producers and merchandisers alike.

Consumption has dropped from a peak of 402 in 1945 to 354 per capita in 1959. The hen has bounded from 152 eggs a year to around 200 eggs, and there are twice as many hens as humans. Forecast for 1960 is that consumers will slip another four eggs per capita.

There seems to be two possible solutions. One is to cut back production and have the Government buy up part of the existing surplus. The other is to increase consumption with heavy promotion and improvement of the basic product.

The latter idea is picking up speed with the researchers. Farmers and dealers are kicking in funds for a fast-growing program of research and promotion, and at the same time are striving to increase the quality and freshness of eggs coming to the consumer.

Instant scrambled eggs have been exhibited at the Army's Food & Container Institute in Chicago. In just 60 seconds the demonstrator presented a tempting dish of scrambled eggs, beginning with yellow cracker like squares shaken out of a tiny foil package Add hot water, and you have scrambled eggs!

This instant product is not to be confused with the dried eggs during the war. Any soldier, even Army chefs, shudder at the mention of them. Dried eggs had a strong taste, unnatural texture, and unusual odor says one Army authority. The new scrambled egg product will keep for months without refrigeration, according to an army authority, and the soldier or a busy housewife can enjoy scrambled eggs without dirtying a pan. The light weight saves on shipping and handling costs, the technician said, at least partially compensating for the three to 10 cents a pound processing cost.

Other ideas "partially ready" are egg salad sandwich-spread in a jar, frozen French toast which can be popped into a toaster, short-circuiting the present messy process of soaking and frying.

Funds for the expansion of the many uses of eggs are derived from trade associations of farmers, hatcheries, handlers, feed firms, and processors.

Even the plain old egg is in for glamorizing. A new General Mills plant will buy 360,000 eggs daily, package them in gay packages instead of the usual grey fiber carton, and put them on the market where they can compete with other colorfully packaged articles.

In other words, the egg scramble is on. "Humpty Dumpty" may have taken a fall, but the push is on to get the consumer to eat eggs To do this, they must keep up with the other food products. The egg must be glamorized in one way or another.

Colerain Grange Plans Open Meeting

Mr. Howard Feather, assistant to the district manager of PP&L will show slides and present a history of the rocks and soils of Lancaster County at an open meeting of the Colerain Grange at the Odd Fellows Hall, Kirkwood March 15, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Feather will be introduced by Richard Green, grange member.

A report of the Community Project Committee concerning the proposed fire protection pond for the Kirkwood area will be heard.

Worthy Master Henry Wenger will be in charge of the meeting.

The Integrity Of Elected Officials

There is an old Italian Proverb that says, "The dog that licks ashes is not to be trusted with flour."

A group of New Jersey poultrymen have been, like many others in the business, having their troubles in the financial structure of this surplus laden economy.

The fact that they have troubles does not set them apart from the many other poultrymen in the nation. Even the fact that they are attempting to do something to improve their situation does not set them very far apart, but the way in which they are attempting to go, does, in our opinion, put them in a peculiar position.

These poultrymen have appealed to the president of the Teamsters, Union, James Hofla, to help them organize themselves out of their difficulties.

That Mr. Hoffa is an organizer, no one could very well deny. However, we feel that the farmers can better serve their own and the public interest in marketing their produce by affiliating themselves with organizations and persons which have come in for less notoriety.

James Hoffa has but one thing to sell—himself. The union which he heads has service to sell. That service can not be readily replaced by another, but the food produced by the poultrymen in question can be pushed aside in favor of other food items. A small amount of unfavorable publicity about any food product can cause a wholesale substitution at the table by the American housewife. We saw it happen once recently with cranberries and again with poultry meat. A near catastrophy could develop if the same sort of situation should arise with eggs.

Finley Peter Dunne wrote, "Trust everybody, but cut the cards."

When a cooperative organization elects officers and hires a manager they should have faith that those officials will conduct the business to the best of their ability. The stock holders in the cooperative venture should trust those officials, but it doesn't hurt to cut the cards occasionally, especially if those officials are doing all the dealing.

When the officers of any organization, from the smallest social club to the greatest nation on earth, attempt to influence the elections of that organization, democratic processes are very near destruction. And when those officers attempt to manipulate elections in order to perpetuate their tenure in office, democracy will die and dictatorship will rise in its place unless the rank and file members quickly take over the reins of government again.

Bad officials are elected by good citizens who do not vote. If in your farm organization there is any question as to the legality of procedure in elections, or if there is any suspicion upon the integrity of elected officials, it is your duty to become informed at first hand—and then make sure your vote counts.

At least that's how it looks from where we stand.

"Since the first sputnik went sputtering into the wild blue yonder, there has been a great vogue for following the example of Soviet Russia in matters related to science, on the theory that the Communists have the last word.

" . . . Dr. Atkinson, was a delegate to the International Federation for Documentation, held in Warsaw, Poland, last September. He found the Russians were copying the American system and were decentralizing at the moment our scientists were urging that the Soviet method be followed. If we aren't careful we'll meet ourselves coming back."

Into The Fire

The nation's top farm economists agree that if production controls were removed and price supports lowered to the free market level over the next 5 years farmers would be out of the frying pan and into the fire.

That is the conclusion reached by U. S. Department of Agriculture and Land Grant College economists in separate surveys made in response to a request by Sen. Allen Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Results of the studies are published in a 30-page report entitled Senate Document No. 77, free copies of which are available through the U S Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Both reports emphasize that the studies are the independent conclusions reached by the economists, and not necessarily the view of policy officials, in response to this question.

What would the effect be on farm production, prices, and income if government production controls were eliminated and price supports lowered to the free market level over the next 5 years?

Production Up, Prices Down

Both surveys are in agreement that removal of production controls and lowering of price supports, as advocated by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, would result in an increase in production along with lower prices and reduced income for farmers.

Department of Agriculture economists think total farm production would increase at an average of 2% per year, somewhere near the average of the past 10 years They think that by 1965 farm prices would decline another 14% but that cash income would drop only 9% because of increased marketing.

They estimate that by 1965 beef cattle would average $15 (down 25%), hogs $11 50 (down 20%), milk $3 60 (down 20%), corn 80c a bu. (down 25%), wheat 90c a bu. (down 50%), cotton 25c (down 30%), eggs 29c (down 20%), broilers 15c (down 10%), and soy beans $1 60 (down 25%).

The report does not explain how the 14% average decline is arrived at in view of the much larger decline predicted for commodities which make up 80% of all farm marketings.

College Conclusions

The college economists expressed the belief that USDA's projections of probable 1965 prices and income were "somewhat higher" than justified by the expected increase in volume of farm marketings.

They estimated net farm income would drop from about $11.5 billion last year to about $7 billion in 1965, a decline of about 40%, including both cash marketing receipts and government payments.

Other estimates included a 60% to 75% drop by 1965 in net cash receipts by wheat growers, 35% lower for cotton producers, 37% lower for corn-hog producers, 13%lower for dairymen, but not much change for beef cattle ranchers.

"The reduction is realized net income (40%) would be borne largely by the 2.1

Bible Material: Acts 24 through 26.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 10 16-25.

A Day In Court

Lesson for March 13, 1960

WHEN a prisoner appears in court heavily handcuffed and with a chain attached to him, it is a sign he is known as an escape artist. Maybe his nickname is Slippery Sam. Now Saint Paul was no Slippery Sam, but he was forced to wear chains all the same. Furthermore, he was accused chiefly of being a rabble-rouser. Even a real rabble-rouser doesn't like to be called that; and Paul was anything else but that. Yet there he was in court, first before Governor Felix, later on before Governor Festus and King Agrippa. The charges were flimsy, but the chains were solid.

Dr. Foreman

What could Paul do about it? Two things he would not do. He would not complain that he was there at all. He could have kept his mouth stubbornly shut, he could have said that an Apostle cannot rightfully be tried by a civil court. On the contrary, he recognized the legal right of the court to pass judgment on his case. Again, he could have "fixed" the court. We know that Governor Felix hoped for a bribe. Paul had wealthy friends and they could have arranged it. But Paul did not do that.

The Church in Court

Paul's situation may cast some light on the relation between the Christian church and the civil courts, or the civil government in general, in our day. This is a very tricky subject and the churches which we will be studying this lesson are not all agreed on the solution. But we can venture a few general thoughts. The church certainly can rule out what Paul ruled out. The church has no right to say, "The civil courts and the civil government have no jurisdiction over the Church of God." If any body of people anywhere has a high duty to comply with law and submit to proper authorities, the church Of course the church beliefs, and its mode of operation the appointment of its ministers are its own affairs.

If the church must refuse to tations to stand outside the law must also be scrupulous not to fluence law and law-makers illegal means. This goes all way from preachers who try to their traffic-violation tickets "fixed", up to a great church tries to get illegal tax reductions or exemptions.

What then can the church If it should not stay aloof from and government, and if it can try to please the Felixes and the capital with bribes, direct indirect, what can the Christian church do as it confronts the state?

Again it might take a leaf Paul. He did try to influence court; but it was open and above board. He put his case truthfully quietly, but persuasively In these trials the court was prejudiced against him at the start he always won a verdict of Guilty. What he had on his were facts, and he presented the facts so that even skeptical judges were convinced.

Getting the Christian Case Ho

Here is something the church can do, or several things all combined. First, the Christian church needs to have, more than it sometimes does have, a clear understanding of what "Christian social ethics" means and is; that is, say, the church ought to have clear and clearer understanding what the Christian faith implies for social, business, educational and all other realms of life modern society. Second, the church should be more aware than it is the moral side of proposed legislation; which is to say in simple words,—the church should always be alert to ask, What is this? this situation, going to do to people? The church that is not interested in persons and what affects them, is a long way removed from its Master. And third, the church through as many of its members as are really interested, should keep governors, congressmen, senators, mayors and official boards aware of the Christian viewpoint. Like Paul, the church needs to state the Christian position, to persuade by the highest method—presentation of the truth

Now Is The Time . . .

BY MAX SMITH

MAX SMITH

TO KEEP LIVESTOCK OFF PASTURE—Some livestock producers permit their animals to run out on the grazing area very early in the spring; there is little value in this practice and great harm will be done to the grass roots; in addition the livestock will tramp holes in the ground when it is full of moisture and soft An exercise lot is recommended for all livestock but keep them off the pasture area until the grass is at the proper height and the ground more solid.

TO PLAN FOR SOWING SPRING OATS EARLY — Local growers of spring oats should make every effort to get them into the ground by the first of April In southeastern Pennsylvania the weather usually gets too dry and too hot in early summer for top oats yields; therefore, very early planting will mean a big difference in the yield.

TO PROVIDE SEPARATE LOAFING AREA FOR COWS—Producers who are loose housing dairy cattle should not feed, hay, or water their cows in the loafing area To maintain a good bedded pack, the important practice is to allow the cows to use it only when loafing and lying down To permit any other activity in this clean, well bedded area will only bring on dirty conditions and use more bedding

TO CREEP FEED SPRING LAMBS—Easter time is usually a rewarding market for lamb producers Considering the favorable prices at this time of the year it is suggested that lambs be pushed along as rapidly as possible; the practice of providing extra feeds only for the lambs should be a profitable one. This feed is usually fed in a small creep feeder so that the ewes cannot get to it A mixture of 3 parts of cracked corn, 2 parts of whole oats, and one part of wheat bran is suggested. These extra pounds increase returns from the lamb crop.

EASIER SEEDING

A new technique called "clipping" may make seeding of bromegrass much easier says John Baylor, Penn State extension agronomist. Clipping removes a large portion of the excess hull. This operation increases the weight of the seed and makes seeding easier with conventional seeding equipment

MANAGEMENT IS IMPORTANT

In large measure, flock performance depends upon the development of a bird's MAXIMUM EGG LAYING CAPACITY. Proper management of GROWING PULLETS between 12 weeks and production is one of the important principles contributing to success. Other equally important factors include: good breeding, good feeding and adequate sanitation.

For a sound, successful RECORD PRODUCING* program which will raise your pullets at a surprisingly reasonable cost.

For the Farm Wife and Family

Why People Like Eggs

by Mrs. Richard C. Spence

Here are three good reasons why eggs are popular with peop'e:

1. PEOPLE "LIKE EGGS" — In many consumer egg studies, it was found that people frequently purchased and used eggs "because we like them." This points up the wide acceptanhe of an egg's flavor, its versatility and ease of cooking The egg, a breakfast "mainstay", is also widely used as a hearty luncheon dish, for sandwich fillings, and in combination with other foods for satisfying dinners.

2 EGGS ARE TOPS IN NUTRITION — Two eggs supply as much as 30 per cent of the high-quality protein needed daily by adult men or women! In fact, egg protein comes so near to perfection that scientists use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods. Eggs also contain substantial amounts of essential minerals and vitamins, including the antianemia vitamin, B12. One of nature's most nearly perfect foods, eggs combine their heavy concentration of high-quality protein with relatively few calories, and complete digestibility, and are accepted as an important dietary requirement from infancy through the "golden age" group.

3. EGGS ARE EASY TO COOK — Basic egg cookery is something a youngster can master, it is so easy and uncomplicated. For the experienced cook, this means that eggs can be appetizingly prepared in minutes, in a variety of ways from soft cooked to shirred. Eggs are ideally combined with sauces, salad ingredients, poultry and other sea-food and meat foods that satisfy eager appetites without stretching the food budget — because eggs are economical, too!

Try some of these recipes for serving eggs in a variety of ways to your family.

FOR A HIGH ANGEL FOOD CAKE you need to spearate eggs while they are cold but you'll get greater volume if you beat them when they are at room temperature. Beat the whites until they are high and fluffy, and stiff but not dry. If you overbeat them the air cells break down and you'll lose volume Add sifted and measured sugar very gradual ly so that you keep beating in air without breaking down the volume of the egg whites.

EGGS EXTEND FRUIT — Peaches, apricots or pineapple available in very small amount may be served to everyone when you make a nourishing baked or soft egg custard. Dice or mash fruit and put inside or on top of the custard or place in cup before pouring in the custard to make a good-tasting dessert

Deadlines Are Announced By A.S.C. Offfice

Price support on the 1959 corn crop is still available at $1.24 per bushel, through either farm-stored loans or purchase agreements, Landis G. Becker of the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabalization and Conservation office said today. Interested farmers should contact the office. Final date for application is May 31.

Becker also said farmers should enroll early to be guaranteed payment for the practices they plan to carry out under the Agricultural Conservation Program this year. To date, 170 farmers have enrolled, and practices have been approved in the amount of $18,000. Total allocation for the county is $120,000. Soil tests must be made by either the County Agent or State College for any practice requiring the use of lime.

Under the wheat feed pro gram, farmers may harvest up to 30 acres of wheat, regardless of the allotment, if all the wheat is fed on the farm where it is produced.

March 31 is the end of the 1959 wool marketing year. Wool growers have un til April 30 to file for incentive payments on wool or lambs sold between April 1, 1959 and March 31, 1960.

To make application the farmer must submit sales slips showing name of buyer and seller, date of sale, pounds of wool or weight of lamb sold, amount received and the slip must be signed by the buyer, Becker said.

GEAR FURNITURE TO SPACE

In choosing furniture, con sider the amount of space available in the house, suggests Erma L. Langford, Penn State extension home furnishings specialist. Small scaled furniture rather than large, bulky pieces may be a good choice for a house with limited space. Dual - purpose furniture and sectional pieces are other practical solutions to problems of limited space.
